

I would like to say that I hope the commission does NOT allow cell phone use in flight. It is very disturbing. There would be no peace in the very confined spaces of the airplane, especially since the person using the phone would probably shout all the time due to loss of hearing ability with the cabin ambient noise. There are phones on most planes available for use with a per minute charge, this is sufficient. I am an internationally travelling US business man. I feel that the resources available are enough, but the use of cell phones inflight would be a NUISANCE and would be DISRUPTIVE. Thank you for your consideration.
